

STORIES OF RESILIENCE

Storms Couldn't Stop Us

How a severe weather delay turned into one of our most joyful days of service yet

Our Back to School and Food Distribution was originally set for a different day — but a severe weather event moved through our area and forced us to postpone. For most organizations, a delay like that could mean a missed opportunity. For our volunteers, it simply meant more time to prepare. Within days, our team regrouped, rescheduled, and showed up ready to serve our neighbors with the same heart and hope we always bring.

When the day finally came, it was nothing short of a celebration. Joyful volunteers lined the distribution route handing out food items, treasured back-to-school backpacks, haircut vouchers, and shoes to families who needed them most. And the work didn't stop when the last car pulled away — our volunteers stayed behind to clean up and refill the pantry shelves we are blessed to stock through our partnership with the North Texas Food Bank. It takes real sacrifice to make an operation like this run smoothly. But as our volunteers remind us every time, there is joy in service.

MOMENTS FROM THE DAY

Faces of the Distribution

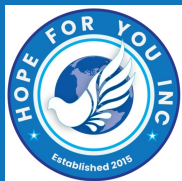

A volunteer holds up backpacks — treasured gifts for kids heading back to school.

Volunteers sort and stage food boxes and school supplies before the cars begin to arrive.

The line of cars stretched down the road — 130 vehicles in all, representing about 650 neighbors served.

Exciting News

A New Church Family: Amid the giving and the gratitude, we were thrilled to announce the launch of a new church coming soon to the community — another sign of hope taking root here.

Prayer & Presence: As families moved through the line, our volunteers took time to pray with them and share the love of Christ — a reminder that this work is about far more than food and backpacks.

With Gratitude

Thank you to every joyful volunteer who gave their time and heart, and to the North Texas Food Bank for making it possible to keep our shelves full for the neighbors who count on us.

Rain may have delayed the date, but it never delayed the joy of showing up for our neighbors — Hope For You (HFY)
